Description

Jim Dine (b. 1935, USA) "A Heart at the Opera" exhibition poster produced for the Centennial Celebration of the Metropolitan Opera 1883-1983. This first and limited edition (77/500) original lithograph poster has artist Jim Dine's initials "JD" in pencil in the lower right. The piece is in its original mint condition, measures 28 1/2" x 48" unframed. Jim Dine is a major post-war artist who debuted on the New York art scene in the early 1960s. Since then Dine's name has been linked with the Pop Art movement and he has created a wide variety of work: drawings, works on paper, paintings, and sculpture. His subjects have included plants, animals, figures, puppets, and self-portraits, and his depictions of hearts, tools, and robes have become his hallmark images.
