

Campbell's Tomato Sou...

---

Artist Name: Andy Warhol

Size: 35 X 23

Frame Size: 0 X 0

Category: Print

Medium: Serigraph

Product type: OPEN

Price: $495.00

Description

---

(After) Andy Warhol (1928 - 1987, American) "Campbells Tomato Soup Can 11.46" - Open edition silk screen print on museum board published by Sunday B. Morning. The unframed work of art measures 35 x 23 inches and is stamped in blue on the verso with "Published by Sunday B. Morning" and "fill in your own signature." A Certificate of Authenticity issued by Sunday B. Morning and dated 2018 is included. Warhol originally painted 32 canvases of different varieties of , Campbell's soup cans between 1961 and 1962 in his quest to create fine art based on a recognizable product of certifiably popular culture. Andy Warhol once said Campbell's Soup Cans were his favorite creation. He said of Campbell's Tomato Soup, "I used to drink it. I used to have the same lunch every day, for 20 years, I guess, the same thing over and over again." His earlier work in advertising inspired him, and the Campbell's Soup Cans in particular, symbolized mass-produced, print advertising. The original Sunday B. Mo